

Conditions of Use, Copyright, and Disclaimer

Materials in the Columbia River Treaty Digital Library may be protected under copyright laws. These materials have been made available for purposes of research, private study, education or other activity exempted as fair dealing under the Copyright Act but may not be used for any commercial purpose. Columbia Basin Trust has permission from rights holders of items not in the public domain to digitize and provide access to those items for the foregoing purposes only. Distribution of copies or copying for purposes other than those purposes requires the explicit permission of the copyright owners. Users are responsible for obtaining such permission and paying any necessary fees. Columbia Basin Trust will not be held responsible for any damages arising out of use of materials on this website.

Copyright law in Canada is governed by the Copyright Act.

By their use of these materials, users agree to the following conditions:

- Materials available on this website are for purposes of research, private study, education or other activity exempted as fair dealing under the Copyright Act only. These materials may not be used for any commercial purpose without permission of Columbia Basin Trust and the rights holders of the original material.
- Publication or distribution of any material requires permission from the rights holders.
- Use of these materials in scholarship warrants proper citation. See Guidelines For Citing These Materials.

The information on this website is made available as a public service by Columbia Basin Trust. However, Columbia Basin Trust does not guarantee the accuracy, reliability, or completeness of the information and is not responsible for any errors or omissions. If you believe that the collection has included a document in error, please contact Columbia Basin Trust at 1.800.505.8998 or 1-250-344-2911.